JAMES MADISON MEMORIAL FELLOWSHIP FOUNDATION

2015 ANNUAL REPORT
MISSION

The James Madison Memorial Fellowship Foundation was established by Congress in 1986 for the purpose of improving teaching about the United States Constitution in secondary schools. The purpose of the Madison Fellowship program is to strengthen teaching of the history and principles of the Constitution by supporting master-of-arts level graduate study for secondary school teachers of history, government, and social studies.

This year (October 2014-September 2015) was a banner year for the James Madison Memorial Fellowship Foundation. In February, Peggy Jackson, ’02 (NM) became President-Elect of the National Council for the Social Studies and John King, Jr. ’95 (NJ) was appointed by President Barack Obama to serve as Acting Secretary of Education. (He was later appointed Secretary.) The accomplishments of these two outstanding Fellows are exemplary, but they are matched by the daily successes of each Fellow in his or her classroom.

An amazing 85% of all Madison Fellows currently teach in secondary history or government classes, while 10% of Madison Fellows serve as state and district social studies supervisors; play active roles in their communities; and many Fellows (nearly 40) teach full or part-time in the History, Political Science, Education, or Law departments of community colleges and universities. Fellows also serve in elective office in their cities and towns.

We are pleased that well-qualified educators continue to apply for the fellowship. In 2015, the total number of completed applications increased slightly with an especially strong increase in the number of applications (22%) for Junior Fellowships.

Madison Fellows themselves are the most powerful publicity for the fellowship program: 58% of all 2015 Fellows heard about the program from another Fellow. To supplement these efforts during the 2015 competition, the Foundation had contact with nearly 50,000 individuals.

Traffic to the Foundation website (www.jamesmadison.gov) continues to increase. This past year, over 43,000 individuals saw one or more videos on the Foundation’s YouTube channel and 153 new subscribers were added (www.youtube.com/user/MadisonFoundation). Fellows and others find tremendous value in these resources. (The average time spent watching a YouTube video is 4:40 minutes; the average time on the Foundation channel is 9:04 minutes.)

The Foundation’s finances remain strong. Foundation Staff and Trustees are determined to be responsible stewards of federal dollars to ensure that the Foundation will continue to award fellowships for decades to come. However, the higher cost of our programs is limiting the total number of fellowships awarded each year. As finances permit, the Foundation desires to offer one fellowship per state each year, whenever possible.

Our sister non-profit, the James Madison Education Fund, Inc., continues to attract both new and repeat donors. The Harrison Foundation provided significant support for an additional Virginia fellowship, and 80 Fellows from 22 classes contributed $6,900 in support of the 2015 Fellows’ Fellow. Thirteen Fellows each contributed $200 or more to the campaign.

In this time of political upheaval, it is more essential than ever that our nation’s secondary students have a firm grasp of essential constitutional principles. Throughout their careers, Madison Fellows skillfully lead their students to a deeper understanding of the impact of the Founders’ values and ideals on our lives today. I hope this 2015 Annual Report will help you appreciate the impact of their efforts.

2015 James Madison Lecture

Fellows Celebrate the Octocentennial of the Magna Carta

On Friday, July 10, 2015, nearly two dozen Fellows and friends of the Foundation joined the Summer Institute participants for the Annual James Madison Lecture. Held in the Copley Formal Lounge of Georgetown University, this year’s lecture featured Professor A. E. Dick Howard, White Burkett Miller Professor of Law and Public Affairs at the University of Virginia, speaking about Magna Carta: Its Legacy in American Constitutionalism. Professor Howard has devoted his professional life to understanding the Supreme Court, the American Constitution, and constitutions of the world.

Professor Howard is one of the world’s foremost experts on Magna Carta and all in attendance were eager to learn from him about the many connections between the English Magna Carta (signed in 1215 in England) and the American Constitution and Bill of Rights. He mentioned guarantee of due process, protection of property, and rule of law as some of the most significant American constitutional principles deriving from Magna Carta. As one Fellow noted, “We were so fortunate to hear insights about Magna Carta from Professor Howard, a notable scholar from one of the nation’s best universities. This opportunity for a group of secondary school teachers to learn from a scholar like Dr. Howard is priceless.”

Fellows at the White House Historical Society

President Stuart D. McLaurin welcomes James Madison Fellows for the first time to the White House Historical Association during the 2015 Summer Institute. Following a presentation by Chief White House Historian Dr. William Bushong on James Madison and the War of 1812, Fellows were treated to a tour of the White House.
JAMES MADISON FELLOWSHIPS

- Fellowship Awards constitute the core of the Foundation's programs. The Foundation conducts an annual nation-wide competition to select James Madison Fellows. Fellows are selected for their academic achievements and for their desire to be more knowledgeable secondary school teachers of social studies and American history and government.

- Fellowship Applicants must have demonstrated an interest in pursuing a course of graduate study which emphasizes the Constitution and Bill of Rights and have demonstrated a willingness to devote themselves to teaching and civic responsibility. The Foundation's goal is to annually select at least one James Madison Fellow from each state, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the American territories in which there are at least two resident applicants who meet the minimum criteria. An independent review committee appointed by the Foundation evaluates all valid applications and may recommend to the Foundation, for appointment as James Madison Fellows, at least one outstanding applicant from each state (as funding permits.)

- Junior Fellowships for full-time graduate study toward a master's degree are awarded to college seniors and recent graduates who wish to become secondary school teachers of American history and government. Junior Fellows are eligible for a maximum stipend of up to $24,000 prorated over the course of study. In no case can the stipend exceed $12,000 for each year of study.

- Senior Fellowships are awarded to experienced secondary school teachers for part-time graduate study toward a master’s degree during summer session or evening and weekend programs. Financial support for Senior Fellows is limited to five calendar years and up to a maximum stipend of $24,000 prorated over the period of study.

- History and Political Science are the preferred content areas for graduate degrees earned by James Madison Fellows. Fellowship recipients may attend any accredited university in the United States with a master's degree program offering courses that emphasize the origins, principles, and development of the Constitution. The Foundation reviews each Fellow’s proposed course of study for an appropriate balance of constitutional subject matter.

- The Teaching Obligation for all James Madison Fellows is at least one year of full-time employment in a secondary school social studies department for each year of assistance. If this requirement is not met, the recipient must reimburse the Foundation for all financial assistance plus interest. The Foundation strongly encourages Fellows to teach in their selection state when they complete their education.

OTHER EDUCATION PROGRAMS

- Lesson Plans for teaching about the Constitution are provided on the Foundation's website. (www.jamesmadison.gov).

- Links to professional development opportunities and curricular resources for secondary school social studies teachers are also provided on the website.

- Constitutional Conversations, the Foundation’s new video series, is available on the website and on the Foundation’s YouTube Channel.
2015 Fellowship Program

2015 JAMES MADISON FELLOWS

The Foundation conducted its twenty-fourth nationwide competition for fellowships during 2015. From eligible applicants, 51 individuals were selected as James Madison Fellows. Funding from private donors allowed the Foundation to award additional fellowships in several states.

Listed here are the individuals who served on the 2015 Fellowship Selection Committee. They independently evaluated each application and recommended to the Foundation those who could be awarded James Madison Fellowships.

2015 Summer Institute on the Constitution

The Foundation once again welcomed Fellows for the twenty-third time to the annual Summer Institute, held at Georgetown University (June 20-July 17), for a challenging and enriching study of the origins of the American constitutional system.

Professor Terri Halperin of the University of Richmond joined Summer Institute faculty veterans Dr. Jeffry Morrison (the Foundation's Academic Director), Dr. Kevin Hardwick (James Madison University) and Dr. Daniel Dreisbach (American University) in a rigorous schedule of delivering lectures, facilitating discussions, holding student conferences, and grading papers. Fellows had their own rigorous schedules: reading hundreds of pages of challenging primary sources, preparing for discussion sessions, writing thoughtful essays, and visiting the many constitutionally significant sites in and around Washington, DC. For the first time in many years, Fellows were privileged to tour the White House thanks to arrangements made by Foundation Board Chairman Senator John Cornyn (R-TX).

Other guest lecturers included Professor Gordon Lloyd (Ashbrook Senior Fellow and Professor Emeritus, Pepperdine University) speaking about the Constitutional Convention and ratification; Professor Rosemarie Zagarri (George Mason University) offering insights about gender and the Founding; and Professor Charles Yonkers (Georgetown University) discussing The Federalist Papers. Dr. Jack Warren, Executive Director of the Society of the Cincinnati, offered very-well received comments about The Revolutionary War and the Origins of the American Constitution.

According to Troy Petrie, ’14 (TN), “Engaging lectures, challenging primary source readings, stimulating discussions, and visits to historical sites all created a framework for building our understanding of the Constitution. Learning from and interacting with some of the brightest professors in the field alongside some of the best secondary teachers in the nation developed not just my understanding of American constitutional principles, but also my abilities to teach the Constitution. This was an unmatchable learning experience.”

A summer studying the foundations of our Constitution is an opportunity to be enjoyed, cherished, and never forgotten. This experience cannot be replicated and that’s the beauty of it. The community built each summer is one grounded in a love of what the Fellows study and inspired by their vocation to teach the history and government of the United States.

—Sheilah Jennings, ’15 (NM)
The Madison Summer Institute was the best overall professional development in which I have ever participated. The combination of lectures, readings, discussions, excursions, and collegiality was amazing.

—Kelly Dutcher, ’14 (MI)

The depth and breadth of the Summer Institute experience has had a transformative effect on me as both a teacher and a scholar which can only translate into better teaching and learning in the classroom. I look forward to helping students better understand their roles as citizens in a self-governing society.

—Richard Judd, ’14 (FL)

The Summer Institute, more than any other professional development experience, has re-engaged me with the primary sources of history and re-ignited my passion as a scholar-teacher of the Constitution. The intellectual stimulation created by the coursework and conversations were beyond my expectations.

—Jennifer Zirbel, ’14 (MT)

The Madison Summer Institute was the best overall professional development in which I have ever participated. The combination of lectures, readings, discussions, excursions, and collegiality was amazing.

—Kelly Dutcher, ’14 (MI)
I came to education later in life requiring me to balance my desire for furthering my education with the needs of my family, and things like time and money were both at a premium. The Marriott-James Madison Fellowship I received was a godsend on so many counts. But the benefits of this fellowship go way beyond the purely financial. There is the sheer joy of spending time in a roomful of other history teachers, refreshing the passion for Constitutional study that brought me into US History in the first place, and ramping up my own understanding of a wonderfully complex and critical subject in our nation today. Having the support of the J. Willard and Alice S. Marriott Foundation helped me to rediscover that joy and it has made a real difference in my classroom. I don't know if any of my students understand how much difference this wonderful foundation has made in their educations, but I do—and I thank the Foundation for it.

Francis (Rusty) Eder, '10 (MD) is now the Academic Dean at West Nottingham Academy in Colora, MD.

Now in my seventh year of teaching, I can clearly see that the Marriott-James Madison Fellowship had a profound impact on my abilities as a teacher. The Fellowship ensured that I could gain a master's degree in historical studies, enabling me to become a more effective historian and therefore, more effectively teach my students how to become historians themselves. My experiences as a Fellow have provided access to other opportunities. I helped write the AP US History curriculum for Baltimore County Public Schools. I have presented lessons to other teachers, furthering their professional development and helping to ensure students receive quality instruction. The Fellowship allowed me to create and foster priceless relationships with teachers around the country. I am overwhelmingly thankful for the friendship I have with Jacquelyn Wamser, '10 (MO), my suite-mate at Georgetown University during the Summer Institute. I am grateful for the opportunities that the Fellowship created for me as well as my for students.

Brigette Cascio, '11 (MD) teaches at Franklin Senior High School in Reisterstown, MD.

I live in Frederick County, MD where the rich range of local historical individuals includes not only Native Americans but the first president of the Continental Congress, John Hanson, as well as Charles Carroll, signer of the US Constitution. However, as an experienced teacher of Ancient World History, I lacked the knowledge I needed to help my students make strong connections to US History. I knew I needed to learn more! Through the graduate classes I am taking thanks to the Marriott-James Madison Fellowship, I can now pass along to my students my growing understanding of US History. Each year on Constitution Day, 250 students in my school hear from local elected officials such as Congressman John Delaney (MD-D) about the meaning of basic constitutional principles. Thank you to the J. Willard and Alice S. Marriott Foundation for improving the education of my students.

Ellen Georgi, '15 (MD) teaches at Urbana Middle School in Ijamsville, MD.
NEW OUTREACH
In 2015, the Foundation sent a series of emails to teachers from states with traditionally low application completion rates. Over 1000 teachers were contacted and the number of applications from these states increased by 25%.

ON-GOING OUTREACH

Brochures
Each year, the Foundation mails or distributes over 40,000 brochures to secondary schools, university departments, conference attendees, and Fellows. The newest brochure was published in Fall 2015.

Civics Renewal Network
The Foundation continues to support the Civics Renewal Network (CRN) and regularly uploads its instructional materials to the CRN website.

College and University Outreach
As a result of targeted outreach to college and university students, the 2015 applications for Junior Fellows increased by 22%. The Foundation recruits pre-service teachers through mailings (10,200 brochures to 6 offices at 1700 colleges), through the Faculty Representative Program, and through the Madison Ambassadors initiative.

Conferences
Foundation staff exhibited and presented at two major conferences: the National Council for the Social Studies (NCSS) in November 2014 in Boston, MA and the National Council for History Education (NCHE) in March 2015 in St. Augustine, FL. Fellows presented at both conferences, and hundreds of attendees learned about the fellowship program and benefited from the scholastic and pedagogical excellence of the Fellows.

Facebook and Twitter
The Foundation's Facebook account is an integral part of the Foundation's outreach. Regular postings keep Fellows and the Foundation's friends informed about Foundation news as well as other civic education endeavors. The Twitter account was updated in March 2015 and the Foundation tweeted an average of 2-3 times per week.

Foundation Videos
Videos produced or posted by the Foundation continue to generate a tremendous amount of traffic to the Foundation's YouTube channel. Each of these is currently available:
- Fellows' Testimonial
- 2013, 2014, and 2015 James Madison Lectures
- Presidents and the Constitution series (4 videos): Nixon, Ford, Carter, and Reagan
- Constitutional Conversations series
During the year, almost 43,000 individuals viewed one or more of the Foundation's videos. This ever-expanding range of programs enables the Foundation to share the story of the Constitution with people around the nation.

Madison Ambassadors
During the 2014-2015 academic year, Madison Fellows spoke about the fellowship at Cal Poly University, San Luis Obispo; Fullerton College; University of Connecticut; and the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Share and Save
The Share and Save initiative reimburses registration fees for Fellows who present at state social studies conferences and speak about the fellowship program. In 2015, Fellows presented to teachers in Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, New Jersey, Ohio, Tennessee, Virginia, and Wisconsin.
The Foundation has completed the first year of its multiyear video project, Constitutional Conversations. Funded by a very generous grant from the Fairleigh S. Dickinson, Jr. Foundation, this series of illustrated lectures tells the story of America’s constitutional heritage from the perspective of the nation’s top constitutional scholars. Each full-length (20-25 minute) video and each shorter subsection (5-6 minutes) is available on the Foundation’s website (www.jamesmadison.gov) as well as the Foundation’s YouTube channel: www.youtube.com/MadisonFoundation.

RELIGION AND THE CONSTITUTION

Dr. Jeffry Morrison, the Foundation’s Academic Director, analyzes the impact of religious institutions and religious beliefs on political thinking during the Founding period.

- Religion in Colonial America
- The Great Awakening
- Religion and the States
- James Madison and Religion
- James Madison and the First Amendment

WOMEN AND EARLY AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONALISM

Dr. Rosemarie Zagari (University Professor and Professor of History at George Mason University) discusses both the formal and informal political roles played by women in the 18th century.

- Women Before the American Revolution
- Women During the American Revolution
- The American Revolution Changes the Status of Women
- Women Vote in New Jersey
- Women Participate in the Ratification Debates
- Women as Citizens Under the Constitution
JAMES MADISON AND AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONALISM

Dr. Jack Rakove (William Robertson Coe Professor at Stanford University) analyzes both the philosophical as well as the pragmatic components of James Madison’s constitutional principles.

RATIFICATION OF THE CONSTITUTION

Dr. John Kaminski (Director, Center for the Study of the American Constitution at the University of Wisconsin-Madison) explains the roles played by ideas, individuals, and institutions in ratifying the US Constitution.

SLAVERY AND THE CONSTITUTION

Dr. John Kaminski (Director, Center for the Study of the American Constitution at the University of Wisconsin-Madison) highlights the various sectional perspectives on slavery and how those perspectives shaped portions of the US Constitution.

FOUNDERS: FAMOUS AND FORGOTTEN

Dr. Daniel Dreisbach (American University) examines why some Founders are remembered; why some are forgotten; and why some “forgotten” Founders should be celebrated.

IN PRODUCTION

The following videos are currently in production and will be released in the next six months. The next edition of Madison Notes (Winter 2017) will feature thumbnails and summaries from each:

- Dr. Catherine Allgor, Skotheim Director of Education at the Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens, Dolly Madison’s Contributions to Constitutional Conversations
- Dr. Gordon Lloyd, Senior Fellow at the Ashbrook Center and Dockson Professor Emeritus at Pepperdine University, The Constitution as a Four-Act Play
- Dr. Jack Rakove, William Robertson Coe Professor at Stanford University, The American Revolution
- Professor William B. Allen, Emeritus Professor of Political Philosophy at Michigan State University, George Washington’s Constitutionalism and James Madison and American Democracy
The Foundation is governed by a Board of Trustees consisting of thirteen members—two members of the US Senate, two members of the US House of Representatives, two members of the federal judiciary, one governor, two members of the general public, and three members of the academic community—who are appointed for six-year terms by the President of the United States. The Secretary of Education serves as an ex officio member. With the exception of the judges and the Secretary of Education, board membership is evenly divided between political parties. There are currently seven vacancies on the Board.

Note: An independent not-for-profit organization, the James Madison Education Fund, Inc. provides additional financial support for the programs of the James Madison Memorial Fellowship Foundation. The total assets of this Fund on September 30, 2015 were $9,897,243.01.
The Foundation intends, through income from its endowment and from the gifts received or promised, to offer at least one fellowship per state per year as funds permit.

Since the Foundation’s endowment covers all overhead and administrative costs, each contribution to the Foundation (through the James Madison Education Fund, Inc.) is devoted to the funding of graduate study by experienced and aspiring teachers. Donations may be directed to the support of fellowships in particular states or for fellowships from a national pool—all of which are selected according to the consistent criteria and standards governing the Foundation’s selection process.

James Madison Education Fund, Inc.
The James Madison Education Fund, Inc. is an independent non-profit organization created to support the mission of the James Madison Memorial Fellowship Foundation. The Fund periodically grants to the Foundation funds to pay for programs offered by the Foundation. As of September 30, 2015, the Fund had assets of $9,897,243.01.

Donations and Contributions
During Fiscal Year 2015, the Foundation’s programs operated with the support of grants, contributions, and endowments to support the fellowship awards and the Summer Institute from the following:

- The Atlantic Foundation
- Fairleigh S. Dickinson, Jr. Foundation, Inc
- J. Willard and Alice S. Marriott Foundation
- McCormick Foundation Civics Program
- The Henry Salvatori Foundation
- Harrison Foundation

Education Fund Supports Programming
The James Madison Education Fund, Inc., a 501(c)3 non-profit, provided significant support for the programs of the James Madison Memorial Fellowship Foundation. All costs related to the annual James Madison Lecture as well as the Selection Committee meetings were covered by the Education Fund. All meals at Georgetown for the Summer Institute participants and staff were paid for through the Fund. Finally, various office expenses (e.g., furniture, some maintenance, etc.) were covered by the Fund, thus preserving more Foundation monies for the fellowship program.

Fellows Support Scholarship
Fellows Celebrate Scholarship: Two Decades of Summer Symposia was the theme for the 2015 Fellows’ Fellowship campaign. 80 Fellows from 22 classes contributed $6,900 to the James Madison Education Fund, Inc. in support of the 2015 Fellows’ Fellow, Kristina Bybee, ’15 (CO), of Conifer High School in Conifer, Colorado.
1. Kari Whaley, ’12 (FL) and Jason McCray (Foundation staff) talk about the Foundation in the Exhibit Hall of NCHE.

2. US Secretary of Education John King, Jr. ’95 (NJ) welcomes Teaching Ambassador Fellow, Patrick Kelly, ’04 (SC).

3. Emma Humphries, ’04 (FL), Sara Ziemnik, ’02 (OH), and Claire McCaffery Griffin, ’92 (HI) prepare for their NCHE Conference session, Constitutional Connections: How Individuals, Institutions, and Ideas Shape Our Constitutional Understanding.

4. Jennifer Jolley, ’10 (FL) explores Dover Castle with other participants in the American Air Museum Summer Residency program.

5. Tim Kelly, ’00 (MD) teaches eighth graders at Thandi Sibeko Secondary School in Duduza, South Africa.

7. Professor A. E. Dick Howard speaks with Fellows and friends after his delivery of this year's James Madison Lecture, “Magna Carta: Its Legacy in American Constitutionalism.”

8. As a 2015 James Madison Congressional Fellow, Richard Vanden Bosch, ’03 (CA) spent a month on Capitol Hill assisting in the office of Congressman Jeff Denham (R-CA).
